Here's what I liked about my TF(s) and the way that they ran section:

Here's what I liked about my TF(s) and the way that they ran section:

---

Very compassionate and created a safe learning environment

---

Respected everyone's time by starting and ending on time.

---

I think a lot of it had to do with attitude and being inclusive. These characteristics were very strongly shown in my TF.

---

Elizabeth was wonderful - she was always so engaged and excited about section, and she prompted really vibrant discussions that never felt awkward, like Zoom sections often feel like.

---

Elizabeth made section collaborative, entertaining, and engaging. I really liked the way she taught because she made section seem like a casual conversation and I think it made everyone more comfortable and relaxed while still allowing us to deeply go over the material. I am a freshman so I was nervous for section, especially with older students, but she made everyone feel welcome and no one was scared to share their opinions. She was always kind, understanding, and supportive.

---

Elizabeth did a great job of relating what we did in section each week to the lectures and worked pretty hard to tweak some things about section after feedback.

Here's where I thought my TF(s) and the way they ran section could improve:

Here's where I thought my TF(s) and the way they ran section could improve:

---

There are certain limitations with zoom that can't be overcome, so I won't necessarily attribute that to the TF.

---

It would be nice to focus on areas where the students feel we could use more instruction.

---

n/a

---

There were a couple technical difficulties with breakout rooms that could be fixed.

---

I can't think of anything! Elizabeth was amazing

---

Less time in breakout rooms
